

---

David, Alyssa Joyce D.

Page 107

Instructions: After watching the videos listed below, who do you think should be considered as the first President of the Philippines? State your claim in front of the class and provide evidences to support your stand.

In my opinion, Bonifacio should've been the first President of the Philippines because he led the filipinos in the revolution after his idol Dr. Jose Rizal was sent to Dapitan. He instituted the KKK o Anak ng Bayan in order to fight against the Spaniards. Although the KKK has two divisions, one was led by Emilio Aguinaldo and the other was led by Andres Bonifacio. Bonifacio initiated most of the actions done to suppress the Spaniards. He was assigned to be the "Supremo" of the Katipunan. After the Tejeros convention in Cavite, Bonifacio started the HBK in the belief that he was deceived. The HBK had members from the Visayas and Mindanao region and Bonifacio, among all the members, became the President of the group. Given that the election for the president of HBK was democratized and that it includes two out of three major lands in the Philippines, it should be considered that Andres Bonifacio must be recorded as the first President of the Philippines.