1. Why did Jose Marco became the most successful Conman in the study of Philippine History?

Jose Marco is known for being the Philippines greatest Conman. He became famous in this field because of the things he makes which resulted in a great impact on our history. One of these is the Code of Kalantiaw which he makes for people to believe that it was made by Datu Kalantiaw and that it was the rules of our country just before Spanish came. The other hoax that Jose Marco make up that made him known in the Philippines is the La Loba Negra, the story is about Gov. Heneral Bustamante who revealed the extortion that the government of the Philippines did, that's why it leads to his death. And they also state that the wife of Bustamante took her revenge by killing the person involved in the death of her husband. But the strange thing here is that they say that the wife of Bustamante transforms into a She-Wolf, that's when other historians don't believe the story and they think that it was all because again of Jose Marco. And that's the things that Jose Marco did that make him the most famous Conman in Philippine History.

2. What are the hoaxes during Marcos administration? What kind of historical criticism did historian use to uncover those hoaxes?

In today's present time we always experience and heard fake news, it is due to the rising uses of social media wherein Fake news is easy to be spread. But what we don't know is that there are also a lot of hoaxes that happened in the early years of our history. One of these is the time of our past president Marcos. During his time, it was rumored that there have been hoax that was spreading. The first one is that Marcos claims that he was a War Hero that he received a lot of medals and recognition because he fought in World War II and that he has a group called Maharlika. The other one is the Tribo ng Tasaday, they say that these people are part of the Stone Age but it turns out that it was only for show and that Marcos uses these people to deceive other people. And these are the hoaxes that happen in Marcos Administration. And for the historians who uncover these Hoaxes, they use both External and Internal Criticism, both of these two are needed to know if the information is fake or legit. Since External criticism is a process by which historians determine whether a source is authentic by checking the validity of the source. And internal criticism looks at the reliability of an authenticated source after it has been subjected to external criticism.

3. What lesson did this documentary impart specially in relation with the spread of fake news?

There is a lot of information that we get every day, in every information that we gathered there might be a piece of reliable and unreliable information. And through this documentary I learned that we must make sure that the information we gather is reliable, we must think of the other circumstances that surround the information. We must wise enough to know and to study the sources where this information came, and mostly we must not make hoaxes to spread and to deceive other people because there is no such good outcome that we can get in here.
