

Read and answer the following ethical scenarios.

Accounting: I feel like you shouldn't tell his girlfriend because you are going to start drama with them and problem his job

Your supervisor enters your office and asks you for a check for $150.00 for expenses he tells you he incurred entertaining a client last night. He submits receipts from a restaurant and lounge. At lunch your supervisor's girlfriend stops by to pick him up for lunch and you overhear her telling the receptionist what a great time she had at dinner and dancing with your supervisor the night before. What do you do?

Bank Teller: I wouldn't stay quiet I would go and tell my boss because you have a chance of losing your job as well as her it would be the right thing to do on your part and you might lose your friend as well

You have worked as a bank teller for several months when one of the other tellers who has become a good friend tells you that her daughter is extremely ill and that she must have an operation to survive. She also tells you that she has no insurance and the operation will cost $10,000. Sometime later you ask her about her daughter and she tells you she is just fine now. She then confides in you that she took $10,000.00 from a dormant account at the bank to pay for the operation. She assures you that she has already started paying it back and will continue to do so until it is all returned. What do you do?

Computers: sell it to the company because maybe they could compromise with you and the company instead of trying to sell yours and getting into a lawsuit and making things a lot worse for you.

In your spare time at work, you have developed a new spreadsheet program on the computer in your office. It is even more powerful, yet easier to use than anything on the market. You share your new program with a friend who encourages you to market it on your own because you could probably make an incredible profit in a very short time. This is a very attractive option, yet you developed it using company equipment and during time that you were at work. What do you do?

Journalism/Advertising: tell both sides of the story so that you don't have any complaints

Your newspaper has published a report on a national study, which concluded that bottled water has virtually no health advantages over the tap water in more cities, including yours. The study included comments from local health storeowners and water distributors challenging the study. The AquaPure Bottled Water Company, advertising account worth over $75,000. a year, has threatened to pull its account with your newspaper unless you run another story of equal prominence, focusing on the benefits of bottled water.

What do you do?

Personnel: turn him into the company because he is breaking the rules they deserve to know the truth

Your company has a firm policy regarding cases of theft of company property. Used company equipment is on a table to be sold by bid each month. You see a valued employee who is 2 months from retirement slip an electric drill from the table and put it in his car before the day of the sale.

What so you do?

Real Estate: talk about her price with her and explain to her how her house is only worth so much and take it for 50

A lady from out of town calls you to list her deceased parent's home in Liberty. She is not sure what it is worth, but says she will be happy to get $50,000.00 for the home. You look at the home and feel it is worth at least $75,000, and realize it would be perfect for your brother.

What do you do?

Retailing: return the gift instead pf keeping it for yourself because you will be going against the company

You are the buyer for a retail-clothing store. Your store has a policy of not accepting gifts. However, over the years, salesmen have offered, and other employees have accepted, lunch, theater and baseball tickets. You arrive home from the office and find a new TV and DVD player on you doorstep with a note that says: "A personal gift for out long standing friendship. Enjoy it with you family in good health. The Jones Clothing Company"

What do you do?

Teacher: get him extra help him understand the class so that he can get good grades and keep his job

You have a student who is from a single parent family. The student must work to attend college. However, the job is interfering with the student's performance and several assignments have not been turned in. You have determined that a "D" is all the student can make when a counselor informs you that the student need a "C" to qualify for an academic scholarship.'

What do you do?