2. Can you think of an unethical role model for the youth of today?

Answer:

The youth having a pre-marital sex or having a sex before marriage.

in today's modern society, youth see this as a normal and not serious matter. It is by law of god to take the holy sacrament of matrimony before having a sex to individual. Having a sex before marriage is considered adultery. The awareness of a person that having pre-marital sex is wrong makes it unethical.

3. a. Is corporal punishment unethical or immoral?

Answer:

Corporal punishment is experienced mostly by children at home and at school. But today, Corporal punishment is considered as violence against children and is punishable by law. Corporal punishment is a way of disciplining children back in old days which I also experienced. But as the time goes by, this type of discipline to children became way more different compared to old days' it became threat and gives trauma to a child. "Recent studies have also shown that corporal punishment is associated with increased aggression and makes it more likely that children will be defiant in the future. Spanking alone is associated with outcomes similar to those of children who experience physical abuse," reporter for the New York Times Christina Caron said. Corporal punishment is a form of mistreatment that is not only immoral but also ought to be illegal because of the effect of this discipline to a child physical and mental health and also in every children's growth who experience this type of punishment. It violates the right of the child, offends children's dignity and harms their development.
